

Kateryna: I liked participating in Ibunka. Because, in my opinion, such projects are a good way to improve your English and get to know the cultures of other countries. I'm very glad that I took part in this program, because, thanks to it, I learned a lot about the countries from which the project participants came. Also, in the last topic, it was interesting to read the opinions of peers about social problems that concern them.

Yevhenii: This is my first experience of such communication with foreigners. I liked reading posts on different topics written by people from different countries. It is quite interesting to learn some aspects of other cultures and how they differ from ours.

Sofy: I like this project because I think it is very interesting to learn how people live in other countries and what their customs are. I really liked reading a post from one girl from Brazil about how they celebrate Christmas. In her post, she wrote that on Christmas she goes to beach parties with friends and, to me, this is very unusual. I also liked talking about other people's favorite films and video games, and I even watched a film that one girl recommended to me. I also liked writing a post about the war in Ukraine, and I think that the whole world should know about it. And at the last one, I really liked the conference, because it was an opportunity to communicate with the creator of the project, as well as with other participants.

Elina: Participation in this project led to a significant development of my skills and the acquisition of valuable experience. Firstly, this project improved my writing skills. I learned how to express my thoughts clearly and expressively became a key element of my written expression. Secondly, participating in the project developed my communication skills. Interacting with people from all over the world through writing posts and discussing comments has taught me to communicate effectively and consider different points of view. Receiving and providing constructive feedback turned out to be an important element of the learning process. In summary, this project not only broadened my knowledge in different fields and about different people but also developed important skills that can be used successfully in my academic, professional and personal life.

Solomia: It was a great opportunity to get to know a lot of new people and dive into their thoughts. Each part of Ibunka made me realise how different people from different countries are and how it is still possible to communicate with each other. Also, it was really great to learn about cultural differences. Last but not least, I am glad I had such an opportunity to improve my English skills.

Anya: I really liked the very idea of communicating with foreigners, as well as sharing with them different knowledge and views on problems and things in the world. It was very interesting to write posts, telling something to others, and also to read and learn something new about the culture and traditions of other countries.
